The Sandbox, a leading decentralized gaming platform and a subsidiary of Animoca Brands, announced today its official partnership with the Virtual Brand Group (VBG), an award-winning metaverse pioneer known for building immersive experiences, virtual commerce and digital fashion, and their collaborator ITV Studios, to launch 'The Voice Coach Battle,' a Web3 gaming experience based on ITV Studios' 'The Voice' TV format with 155 adaptations around the world. For the first time ever, 'The Voice Coach Battle' allows fans anywhere in the world to act like a celebrity coach and sit in the show's iconic red chair, hit the big red button, and lead talent to stardom in a game that adapts to each choice you make, ensuring a unique experience with each playthrough. Jump in to play and coach here!

In another first and exclusive to 'The Voice Coach Battle,' fans are empowered to play along with season 25 of NBC's 'The Voice', now airing, from within the game experience. Players will receive an exclusive limited NFT each week they correctly predict which NBC contestants move forward and ultimately win. Participants are also automatically entered into a 15K SAND prize pool and can win 'The Voice' karaoke microphones to sing at home, provided exclusively by The Gander Group. Additionally, by completing 'The Voice Coach Battle,' players earn a chance to win tickets to attend tapings of 'The Voice' TV show in any one of five (5) different countries: United States (NBC), France, Germany (SAT.1), Australia, and the United Kingdom (ITV).

'The Voice Coach Battle' offers players a similar journey to real-life celebrity coaches on 'The Voice,' starting with a blind audition. As the three contestants perform — a tiger faced pop singer, a rebellious young female rocker, and an intense, moody alien balladeer — players will hit the iconic red button to select their artist.

Fans progress through interactive quests to prepare their talent for the Live Show in the 'The Voice Coach Battle'. Just like on the TV show, players must select music, choose a fantastic wardrobe, perfect stage lighting, and offer advice to their artist at each stage. In addition, players must complete quizzes on the TV show's real celebrity coaches. Unlike any other game ever on The Sandbox, each player's selection changes the outcome of their performers' score based on a brand new game logic technology.

Along the way, players receive help from four new celebrity coaches debuting on The Sandbox: Eon B. Rabbit, Kid Flaire, Cenalia, and IngoAmelis. Designed by an Academy Award® nominee, each coach has their own musical backstory. These coaches assist the players along the way, guiding them toward the final Live Show.

At the 'The Voice Coach Battle' Live Show, players have the opportunity to support their chosen artist as they perform the selected song and wear the chosen outfit. The player-designed stage serves as a backdrop for the performance. To win, the artist will have to secure a standing ovation. Thanks to the implementation of new game logic, players are incentivized to keep coming back to 'The Voice Coach Battle' to experience something new each time.

"The Sandbox is a hub for creativity, discovery, and self-expression, naturally making it the perfect venue for 'The Voice.' We are very excited to collaborate with them and bring the show's energy into the digital realm," said Arthur Madrid, CEO and co-founder of The Sandbox. "We can't wait to see players truly shine as they take on the roles of their favorite coaches."

“It’s showtime in the Sandbox. The future of entertainment is here now with new ways to unite and delight ‘The Voice’ fans globally”, said Justin W. Hochberg, CEO of Virtual Brand Group. “Collaborating with ITV Studios and the Sandbox created a unique opportunity for VBG to merge the physical and digital worlds with three innovations: the first time global TV territories have united in one activation; first game experience on the platform with dynamic choices so every player decision creates a new outcome and television’s first ever virtual coaches”.

Jurian van der Meer, EVP Brand Licensing, Global Partnerships, ITV Studios said: "In the wake of 'The Voice' being named Franchise of the Year in K7 Media's 'Tracking the Giants 2023' report, alongside its recognition for boasting the highest number of active versions in 2023, our collaboration with The Sandbox to launch 'The Voice Coach Battle' represents an exciting step forward for our esteemed franchise”.

This innovative gaming experience invites enthusiasts and fans worldwide to step into the coveted coach's seat and immerse themselves within the unique gameplay. With real-world prizes and exclusive opportunities, 'The Voice Coach Battle' brings the excitement of the TV show to the digital space like never before."
