BritBox is to relive one of the pinnacle moments in Royal Family history, as the original TV coverage from Prince Charles and Diana's wedding day in July 1981 debuts on the platform.

Almost 40 years on from the historic nuptials that saw Charles, Prince of Wales marry Lady Diana Spencer, BritBox will take a trip down memory lane, with all the action live on the streets of London before and after the ceremony in St Pauls.

A must see for Royal enthusiasts, the chronological footage will include news reports from the day, the scenes across London as members of the public lined the streets, and the memorable carriage procession as Lady Diana made her way to St Paul's Cathedral, on a day that would change her life forever.

The coverage follows Charles, Diana and all of the Royal family returning to Buckingham Palace, the balcony appearance, the kiss & the Royal couple departing for their honeymoon.

A classic Royal event revisited four decades on, the coverage presents a snapshot of life in 1981, the day the nation stood still to witness history being made.

Produced by ITN Productions, 'The 1981 Royal Wedding: A TV Event' is available now on BritBox.
